

Templetons To Peru

Dear friends in Christ,

January, 2019

Alex and Bibliana came to us from a Pentecostal religious background. They immediately expressed that they were saved and were very eager to become members and be a vital part of our church family. They seemed sincere and enthusiastic. The conversation began where it always does: over salvation. It wasn't long before it became obvious they did not have eternal life.

It is very difficult to explain to someone that they do not have what they are totally convinced they possess. It is even more sensitive if you are talking about salvation. Once you get through that barrier, you hit another: that of understanding the finished work of Christ on the cross. Both hurdles are difficult to overcome and even harder when they are the beginning of your conversation.

But Alex and Bibliana hung in there. It took us 3 sessions with each lasting about an hour and a half. They were humble and it took time, but they seemed to understand the gospel. But since that day they prayed, they have been irregular in their church attendance. Did they really receive eternal life? Is there something else happening in their life? We don't know. Please pray for this couple.

On a personal note, Ruth and I are doing well-health wise. We thank the Lord for our family. We have 4 children and 14 grandchildren. I am sending you some pictures and a brief description of our family. See attachments.

Nathan Templeton. Nathan lives in Harrison, Tennessee and has two children going from oldest to youngest: Carson and his sister, Aurie. Nathan owns his own business and loves the Lord and his work. Nathan is now divorced and we are praying for the mother of his children to be saved.

Deric and Jessica Cheke. They live in Collegeville, Pennsylvania and have six children going from oldest to youngest: Bayne, Chloe, Dax, Silas, Courage, Challenger. Deric works for Lockheed Martin. They are very active in their church.

Jonathan and Lorena Templeton. They live in Ponferrada, Spain. Jonathan and Lorena are missionaries serving under Baptist Mid-Missions. They have three children going from oldest to youngest: Nora, Alina, and Lucas. Lorena's parents are also missionaries in the same country and serving in the same mission.

Ben and Amy Guillot. They live south of Quebec City, Quebec – Canada. They have three children going from oldest to youngest: Emily, Joel, and Olivia. Ben works for the Canadian government and is also an assistant pastor in his church.

All our children and their mates are very much on fire for the Lord and we rejoice in their spiritual growth. We are faithfully praying for the salvation of our grandchildren. The Lord has been very gracious in preserving us from sin and giving us a strong bonded family.

For Christ's glory,
Stanley and Ruth Templeton
